

Legacy Fund

Experience greater permanency and impact for your giving as NCF provides charitable oversight during your lifetime and beyond

For many individuals and couples, giving can often end up being an isolated activity with little input or communication with other members of the family. But what if you could use your giving as a tool to train up the next generation in generosity and establish a lasting legacy for years to come?

This is the type of impact you can make with a Legacy Fund at NCF, a type of donor-advised fund in which we assume greater responsibility to ensure that your giving intent and granting desires are carried out faithfully during or beyond your lifetime. It provides an innovative way to establish security, permanence, and accountability for your giving goals and objectives.

Some families use the Legacy Fund to train their children while they're living, while others use it to recommend ongoing grants from their Fund for years following their death – rather than a one-time, lump-sum payment to charity.

Tax deductible giving

Give all kinds of assets into your Legacy Fund like appreciated securities, business interests, and real estate for greater tax benefits.
